August 6: Ice Cream Social

It's summer, and what is better in summer than sitting outside knitting with friends? I know! Having your own personal ice cream truck, filled with locally made small batch ice cream, parked right there, ready to serve you.

And that's what we will be doing on Wednesday, August 6, beginning at about 6:30, at the Wedgwood Presbyterian Church, 8008 35th Avenue NE in Seattle - we hope to be on the lawn across the street from the church.

But wait! There's more! Back again by popular demand - a rousing game of YARN-O! Complete with prizes!

We'll also have a sort of a craft project....dressing the bears! Paulette will have a mountain of naked bears ready to be nattily outfitted in the astounding array of outfits that you all have been creating. How fun is that? If you have a spare blanket that is ok to be on the grass, please bring it along so we can spread the bears out and see them better. Also - IF YOU STILL HAVE A BEAR - DON'T FORGET TO BRING IT WITH YOU! We have to turn them ALL in mid-month so that the kids will each get their bear. (If you can't come to the meeting, please contact Paulette at programchair@seattleknittersguild.com to arrange pick up.)

So bring something to sit upon, something to knit - and any last bear outfits or accessories.

August 6. Ice Cream. YARN-O. Bears in outfits. You. Knitting. What could be better?

See you there!

Recap: One Skein KnitAlong

At the July meeting we had Show and Tell for our knitalong, One Skein Projects. Scarves, hats, mitts, baby jackets and cowls were in abundance, in a rainbow of colors. A one-skein project is perfect for showcasing a luxury or hand-dyed yarns, and there were some literally brilliant examples.

I enjoyed this knitalong—anyone can whip out a one-skein, project, right? I started mine the week before and somehow even managed to get it blocked by the meeting, even if it wasn't completely dry... As much as I like finishing a sweater, a one-skein project is a nice breather sometimes! I am looking forward to next year's knitalong--start thinking of a pattern, designer, technique, or other guideline for our Knitalong in 2015!
